

STYLE.COM

style file the latest fashion news
from around the globe

TUESDAY, JUNE 26, 2007

fashion blog

shopping alert
WALK THIS WAY

The shopping-chic evolution of the Meatpacking District continues this evening with a party to welcome Iris - a high-end shoe shop that already has a large European fan base thanks to branches in London, Milan, Paris, and Moscow—to the U.S. The celebration is being hosted by Olivia Chantecaille and the Young Friends of Save Venice. Having a new neighbor on Washington Street may give Jeffrey, the area's longtime top shoe destination, some stiff competition. "I have to go to Jeffrey because we sell there," said Chantecaille, referring to her cosmetics line. "But they both have special places in my heart." —Sarah Cristobal

Photo: Neil Rasmus/PatrickMcMullan.com